

This list is just a start, but should be a good guide for what is necessary, and what is nice, to get to and stay at a yurt for 1 - 5 nights
Checkoff	Checkoff
Gear	Cooking
Durable and proven skis, snowshoes or splitboard with skins	There's a full kitchen with all plates, bowls, cups, silverware, pots, pans, utensils, and two-burner stove. Provided is salt and pepper and hot sauce. Anything more attracts mice, so take what you bring! No one wants your vienna sausages!
Boots that you have used prior	Oil/butter
Poles	Seasonings and condiments
Avalanche beacon and knowledge of it's use	Hot beverages
Shovel, probe, space blanket	Good, good food. We find some great ideas on the web for lighter, hearty fare. You'll eat a lot on these trips so plan accordingly. One note, pasta takes a lot of water, which comes from melting snow!
Clothing	Other
Socks, 1 pair per day	We try to keep some games and reading material, mostly ski stoke mags. There's also the yurt journal to record your stay, please take a minute for this!
Booties or lightweight shoes for around yurt	Headlamp
Long johns	Personal journal
Ski pants, soft shell/hard shell or woolies	0 - +5 sleeping bag
Thermal tops	Nice, thick sleeping pads are provided
Insulating top	Backpack to hold all this stuff!
Windproof/waterproof jacket
Synthetic/down puffy
Warm hat
Sunglasses/Goggles
Warm gloves/mittens
Extra lighter gloves/mittens
Personal
Tooth care (brush, floss, rinse)
Deodorant (for your neighbors)
Any other personal hygiene
Book or other reading material - some at yurt
